Single Statehood Meeting.

About a dozen men met last night at Wagoner and formed a league of single statehood promoters. The object of the league is to effect a union of the two territories under one government. While there were ninety-eight signers to the call there were but a few in attendance and no enthusiasm. The league will meet again. —Muskegon Times.

Seventeen ladies tried to out-sew each other at Mrs. J. W. Light's home yesterday afternoon, and work on articles for the Fair or Bazaar was well begun. Mrs. Light turned her handsome parlor and sitting room over to the crowd, and the click of scissors, the hum of sewing machine were accompaniments to a running fire of small talk, interspersed with ideas of a larger growth—but no gossip. A delicious luncheon was served consisting of chicken salad, olives, sandwiches, saratoga chips and cherries, with a delicious cup of tea, to cheer and enliven. A good amount of work was accomplished.

Adjourned to meet at the home of Mrs. Ben Hampton on next Friday, afternoon at prompt 2 o'clock. Every body who is a member of either or both church societies, or who is a member of the church, or in anyway interested in this work is invited to come out and help along.

A sad scene was enacted at the court house yard yesterday, when a good old father and mother the other children of the family to bid one of their wayward sons a good bye before going to the penitentiary. The good mother had brought dinner and the family ate it in picnic fashion. The erratic one who is to go to the pen has been one of the liveliest and chipper of the crowd of convicts always boasting of his exploits and carrying the air and bravado of an apparent criminal, but in the presence of his mother and his family he melted and cried like a child, and made his mother many promises of good behavior when once again free. The mother was grief stricken and mourns for her son more than if she was laying him in the grave. The dear old mother is the last one on earth to give up her boys, and no boy can stand up against the pleadings and sorrow of the one who bore him and nursed and cared for him. The boys forget her for a time and go bad, but he is a hardened criminal indeed who can hold out against a mother's pleading.
